

CANDIDATE COORDINATOR

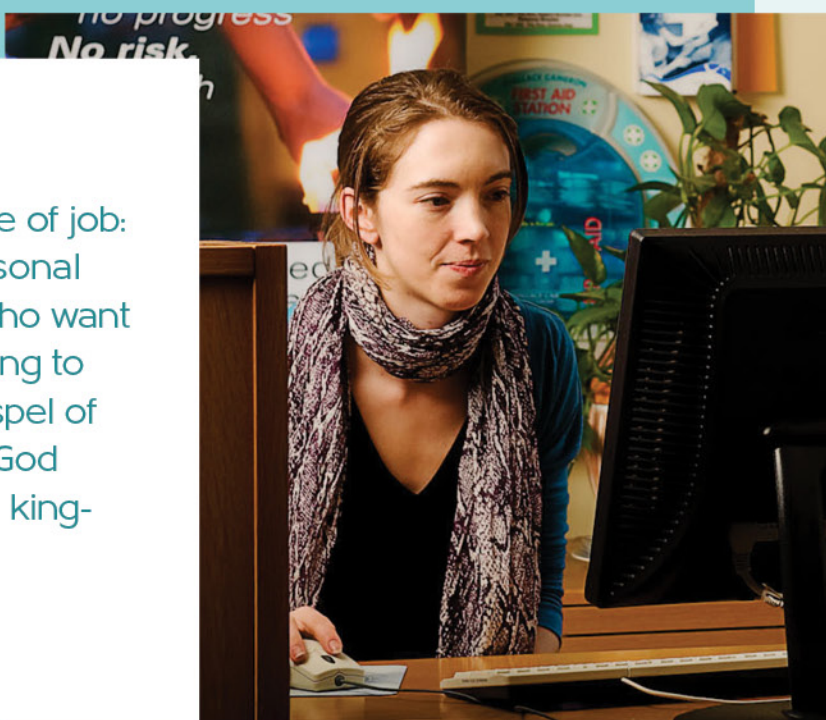

OUR ROLE

We are the field-side “face” to people (candidates) who are still in their home country, but want to come to the mission field. We serve in a Human Resource type of position that is responsible for administrative assistance and support to these people.

OUR PASSION

Candidate coordination is a “big picture” type of job: “Going into all the world.” We develop personal relationships with people from all nations who want to be part of this big picture vision. It is exciting to see lives touched with the power of the Gospel of Jesus Christ, and over time, to see the way God brings His resources to bear to establish His kingdom on this earth.

We serve two different communities:

- Those people who are coming to the field as missionaries, from the 19 different “sending locations”, and
- those people already on the field who are looking for new members to join the harvest in their particular field of ministry.

We need to be comfortable around computers, competent users of modern office software, be familiar with relational databases and enterprise resource planning (ERP) tools and know about the latest in information technology.

Some travel is required to meet with field leaders and attend conferences, trainings and meetings.
